I n di-ébus illis: Attu-lit Esdras sacerdos Legem coram multitudi-ne virórum et mu-lí-erum, cunctísque qui póterant intellégere, in di-e prima mensis séptimi. Et legit in e-o apérte in platé-a, quæ erat ante portam Aquárum, de mane usque ad médi-am di-em, in conspéctu vi-rórum et mu-lí-erum et sapi-énti-um; et aures omnis pópu-li erant eréctæ ad librum. Ste-tit autem Esdras scriba super gradum lígne-um, quem fécerat ad loquéndum. Et apéru-it Esdras librum coram omni pópulo (super univérsum quippe pópulum eminébat), et cum aperu-ísset e-um, ste-tit omnis pópulus. Et benedíxit Esdras Dómino De-o magna, et respóndit omnis pópulus: « Amen. Amen », é-levans manus su-as.

Et incurvá-ti sunt, et adoravérunt De-um proni in terram. Et legérunt in libra Legis De-i distíncte et apérte ad intellegéndum; et intellexé-runt cum legerétur. Dixit autem Nehemí-as (ipse est Athérsatha) et Esdras, sacérdos et scriba, et levítæ interpretántes univérso pópulo: « Dies sancti-ficátus est Dómino De-o nostro: no-lí-te lugére et no-lí-te fle-re ». Flebat enim omnis pópulus, cum audíret verba Legis. Et dixit e-is:

« I-te, comédi-te pínqui-a, et bíbi-te mulsum, et mítti-te partes his qui non præparavérunt sibi; qui-a sanctus di-es Dómini est. Et no-lí-te con-tristári: gáudi-um étenim Dómini est fortitúdo nostra ».
