1 Kings 3:5–12

L écti-o libri primi Regum

I n di-ébus illis: Appáru-it Dóminus Salomóni per sómni-um noc-te, dicens: « Póstula quod vis ut dem tibi ». Et a-it Sálomon: « Tu fecísti cum servo tu-o David, patre me-o, misericórdi-am magnam, sicut ambulávit in conspéctu tu-o in veri-táte et iustí-ti-a et recto corde tecum; custodísti e-i misericórdi-am tu-am grandem, et dedísti e-i fí-li-um sedéntem super thronum eius, sicut est hódie. Et nunc, Dómine De-us, tu regnāre fecísti servum tu-um pro David, patre me-o. Ego autem sum pu-er párvulus, et ignórans egréssum et intró-itum me-um; et servus tu-us in médi-o est pópu-li quem e-legísti, pópu-li infiní-ti, qui numerári et supputári non potest præ multitudíne. Dabis ergo servo tu-o cor dóci-le, ut pópulum tu-um iudicáre possit et discérnere inter bonum et malum. Quis enim póterit iudicáre pópulum istum, pópu-lum tu-um hunc multum? » Plácu-it ergo sermo coram Dómino, quod Sálonon postuláset huiuscémodi rem. Et dixit Dóminus Salomóni:

« Qui-a postulásti verbum hoc, et non pe-tísti tibi di-es multos, nec divíti-as, aut ánimas inimicórum tu-órum, sed postulásti tibi sapi-énti-am ad discernéndum iudíci-um, ecce feci tibi secúndum sermónes tu-os, et dedi tibi cor sápi-ens et intéllegens, in tantum ut nullus ante te sími-lis tu-i fú-erit nec post te surrectúrus sit ».

℣. Verbum Dómini. ℟. De-o grá-ti-as.
