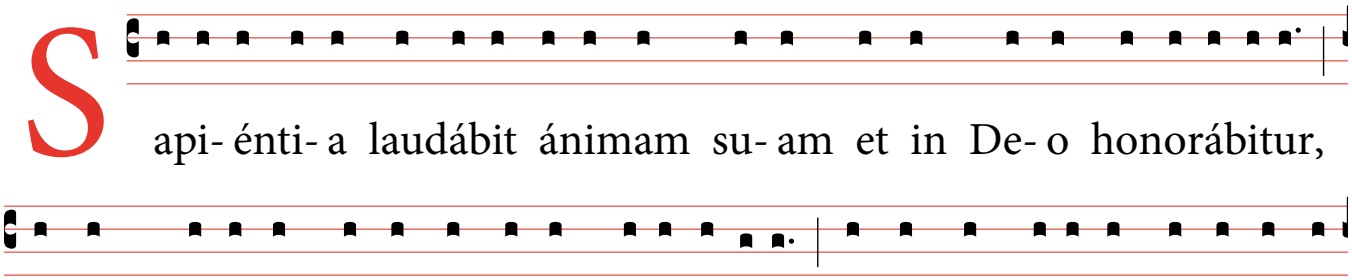
Reading I for the Second Sunday after Christmas

Sirach 24:1–4, 12–16

Lecti-o libri Sirácidæ



Sapi-énti-a laudábit ánimam su-am et in De-o honorábitur, et in médi-o pópu-li su-i glori-ábitur; et in ecclési-is Altíssimi apéri-et os su-um, et in conspéctu virtútis illí-us glori-ábitur, et in médi-o pópu-li su-i exaltábitur, et in plenitúdine sancta admirábitur; et in multitúdine e-lectórum habébit laudem, et inter benedíctos benedicétur. Præcépit et dixit mihi cre-átor ómni-um, et qui cre-avit me requi-évit in tabernáculo me-o, et dixit mihi: « In Iacob inhábi-ta et in Isra-el heredi-táre, et in e-léctis me-is mitte radíces ». Ab iní-ti-o et ante sæcula cre-áta sum, et usque ad futúrum sæculum non désinam, et in habi-ta-ti-óne sancta coram ipso ministrávi. Et sic in Si-on firmáta sum, et in civi-táte sancti-ficáta simí-li-ter requi-évi, et in Ierúsalem potéstas me-a. Et radicávi in pópulo honori-ficáto, et in parte De-i me-i herédi-tas illí-us, et in plenitúdine sanctórum deténti-o me-a.

℣. Verbum Dómini. ℟. De-o grá-ti-as.
