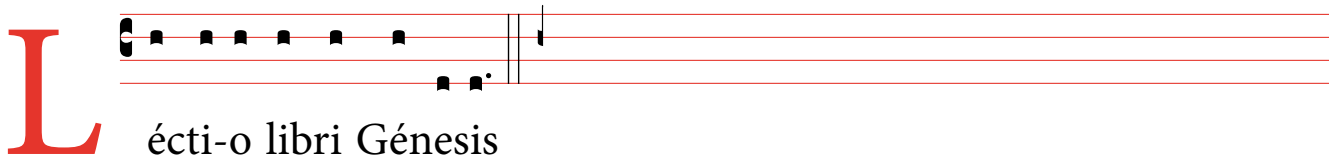
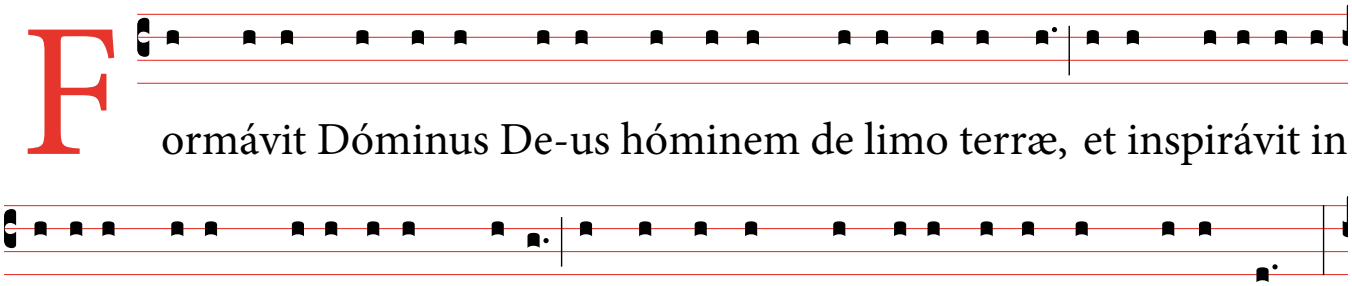
Reading I for First Sunday of Lent

Year A

Genesis 2:7–9; 3:1–7



Lécti-o libri Génesis



Formávit Dóminus De-us hóminem de limo terræ, et inspirávit in fáci-em eius spiráculum vitæ, et factus est homo in ánimam vivéntem.

Plantáverat autem Dóminus De-us paradísum voluptá-tis a princípi-o, in quo pósu- it hóminem quem formáverat. Produxítque Dóminus

De-us de humo omne lignum pulchrum visu et ad vescéndum su-áve; lignum ét-i-am vitæ in médi-o paradí-si lignúmque sci-énti-æ boni et ma-li. Sed et serpens erat callídi-or cunctis animántibus terræ, quæ fécerat Dóminus De-us. Qui dixit ad mu-lí-erem: « ¿Cur præcépit vobis

De-us, ut non comederé-tis de omni ligno paradí-si? » Cu-i respóndit mu-lí-er: « De fructu lignórum, quæ sunt in paradíso, véscimur; de fructu vero ligni, quod est in médi-o paradí-si, præcépit nobis De-us ne comederémus et ne tangerémus illud, ne forte mori-ámur ». Dixit autem serpens ad mu-lí-erem: « Nequáquam morte mori-émini.

Scit enim De-us quod in quocúmque di-e comedéri-tis ex e-o aperi-éntur ócu-li vestri, et éri-tis sicut di-i sci-éntes bonum et malum ». Vidit ígitur mú-li-er quod bonum esset lignum ad vescéndum et pulchrum ócu-lis aspectúque de-lectábi-le, et tu-lit de fructu illí-us, et comédit dedítque viro su- o, qui comédit. Et apérti sunt ócu- li ambórum.

Cumque cognovíssent se esse nudos, consu-érunt fó-li-a ficus et fecérunt sibi perizómata.

℣. Verbum Dómini. ℟. De-o grá-ti-as.