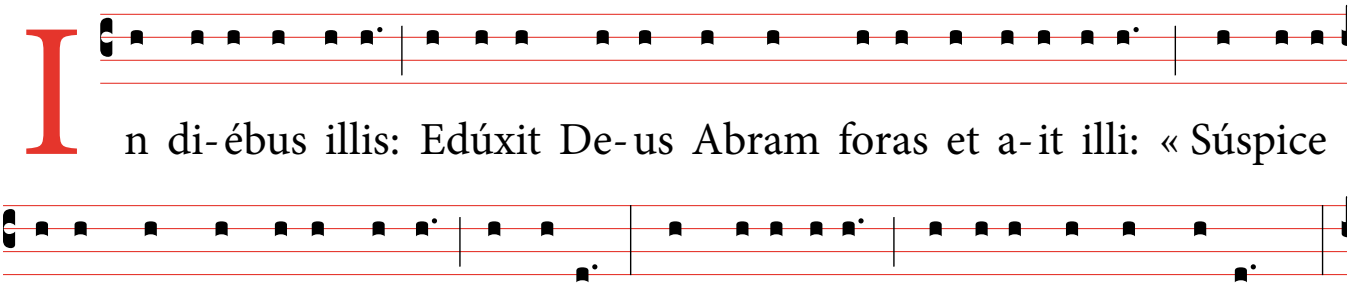
Reading I for Second Sunday of Lent

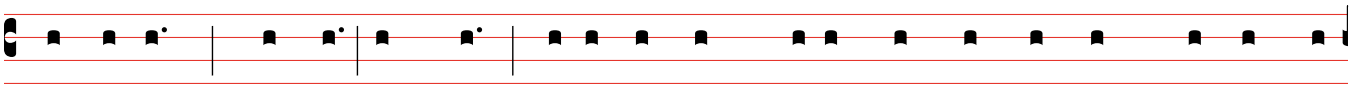
Year C

Genesis 15:5–12, 17–18

Lécti-o libri Génesis



In di-ébus illis: Edúxit De-us Abram foras et a-it illi: « Súspice cælum et númera stellas, si potes ». Et dixit e-i: « Sic erit semen tu-um ». Crédidit Abram De-o, et reputátum est illi ad iustí-ti-am. Dixítque ad e-um: « Ego Dóminus, qui edúxi te de Ur Chaldæ-órum, ut darem tibi terram istam, et possidéres e-am ». At ille a-it: « Dómine De-us, ¿unde scire possum, quod possessúrus sim e-am? » Et respóndens



Dóminus: « Sume, inquit, mihi vaccam tri-énnem et capram trimam et arí-etem annórum tri-um, túrturem quoque et colúmbam ». Qui tollens univérsa hæc diví-sit e-a per médi-um, et utrásque partes contra se altrínsecus pósu-it, aves autem non divi-sit. Descenderúntque vólucres super cadávera, et abigébat e-as Abram. Cumque sol occúmberet, sopor írru-it super Abram, et horror magnus et tenebrósus invásit e-um.

Cum ergo occubu-ísset sol, facta est ca-lígo tenebrósa et appáru-it clíbanus fumans et lampas ignis tránsi-ens inter divi-si-ónes illas. In illo di-e pépigit Dóminus fœdus cum Abram dicens: « Sémini tu-o dabo terram hanc a flúvi-o Ægýpti usque ad flúvi-um magnum Euphráten ».

℣. Verbum Dómini. ℟. De-o grá-ti-as.
