Reading II for Nineteenth Sunday in Ordinary Time

Year C

Hebrew 11:1–2, 8–19

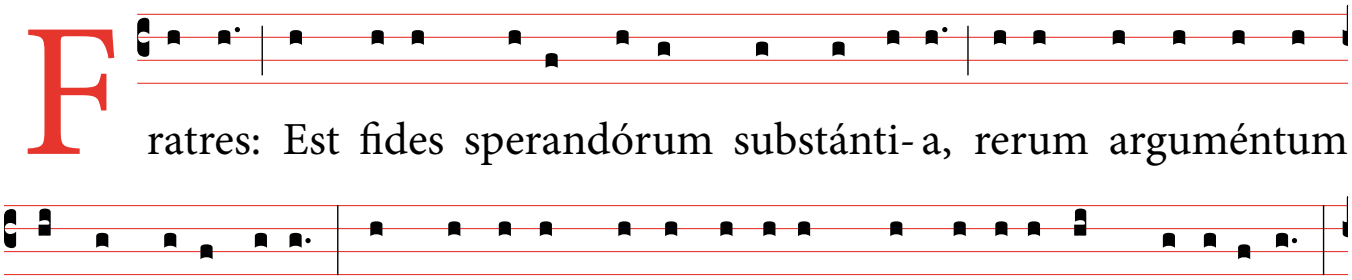
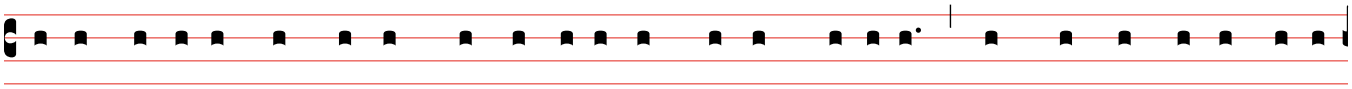
Lécti-o Epístolæ ad Hebræ-os



Fratres: Est fides sperandórum substánti-a, rerum arguméntum non apparénti-um. In hac enim testimóni-um consecúti sunt seni-óres.



Fide vocátus Abraham obœdívit in locum exíre quem acceptúrus erat in hæredi-tátem, et exívit nésci-ens quo iret. Fide peregrinátus est in terra promissi-ónis tamquam in a-li-éna, in cásu-lis habi-tándo cum Isa-ac et Iacob, coherédibus promissi-ónis eiúsdem; exspectábat enim fundaménta habéntem civi- tátem, cuius árti- fex et cónditor De- us.

Fide —et ipsa Sarra stéri- lis— virtútem in concepti- ónem séminis accépit ét- i- am præter tempus ætá- tis, quóni- am fidé- lem crédidit esse e- um qui promíserat; propter quod et ab uno orti sunt, et hoc emórtu-o, tamquam sídera cæli in multitúdine et sicut haréna quæ est ad oram maris innumerábi-lis. Iuxta fidem defúncti sunt omnes isti, non accéptis promissi-ónibus, sed a longe e-as aspici-éntes et salutántes, et confi- téntes qui- a peregríni et hóspi- tes sunt supra terram; qui enim hæc dicunt signí-ficant se pátri-am inquírere. Et si quidem illí-us meminíssent de qua exí-erunt, habébant útique tempus reverténdi; nunc autem me-li-órem áppetunt, id est cæléstem. Ide-o non confúnditur

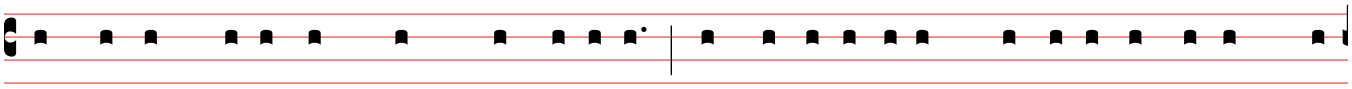
De-us vocári De-us e-órum, parávit enim illis Civi-tátem. Fide óbtu-lit



Abraham Isa-ac cum tentarétur, et unigénitum offerébat ille qui suscéperat promissi-ónes, ad quem dictum erat: « In Isa-ac vocábitur tibi semen », arbitrátus qui-a et a mórtu-is susci-táre potens est De-us; unde e-um et in parábola reportávit.

℣. Verbum Dómini. ℟. De-o grá-ti-as.