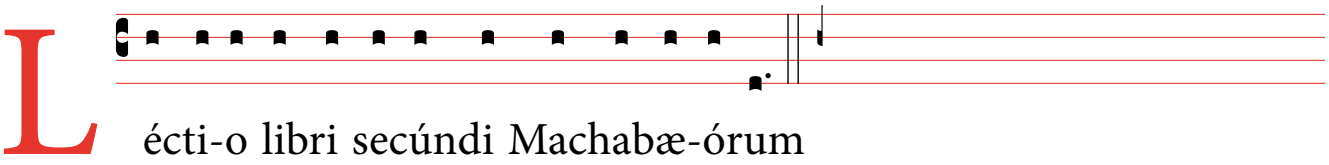
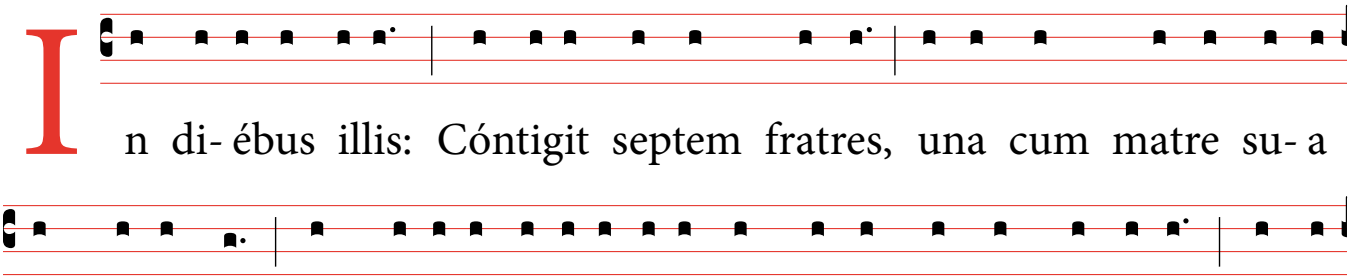
Reading I for Thirty-Second Sunday in Ordinary Time

Year C

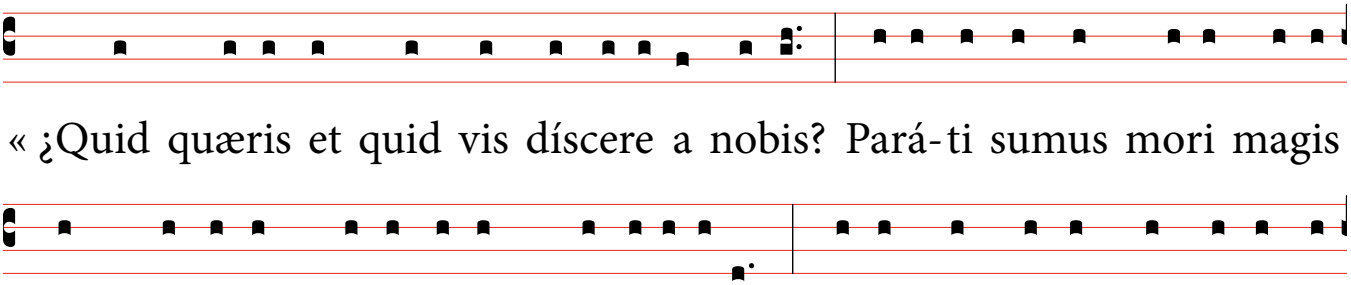
2 Machabees 7:1–2, 9–14



Lécti-o libri secúndi Machabæ-órum



In di-ébus illis: Cóntigit septem fratres, una cum matre su-a apprehénsos, compélli a rege édere contra fas carnes porcínas, flagris et táure-is cruci-átos. Unus autem ex illis, qui erat primus, sic a-it:



« ¿Quid quæris et quid vis díscere a nobis? Pará-ti sumus mori magis quam pátri-as De-i leges prævaricári ». Secúndus autem in último spí-ritu constitútus, sic a-it: « Tu quidem, sce-lestíssime, in præsénti vi- ta nos perdis; sed Rex mundi defúnctos nos pro su- is légibus in ætérnæ vitæ resurrecti- óne susci- tábit ». Post hunc térti- us illúditur; et linguam postulátus cito prótu- lit et manus constánter exténdit, et cum fidúci- a a- it: « E cælo ista possíde- o, sed propter De- i leges nunc hæc ipsa despíci- o, quóni- am ab ipso me e- a receptúrum spero »;

i- ta ut rex et qui cum ipso erant miraréntur adolescéntis ánimum, quod tamquam níhi- lum dúceret cruci- átus. Et hoc i- ta defúncto, quartum vexábant simí- li- ter torquéntes; et, cum iam esset ad mortem, sic a- it:

« Póti- us est ab homínibus morti datos spem exspectáre a De- o í- terum ab ipso resusci-tándos; tibi enim resurrécti-o ad vi-tam non erit ».
